EL PASO, Texas — Northeast patrol officers responded to a subject with a gun call early Saturday morning. Once officers arrived, officers found a 37-year-old male with gunshot wounds. Officers requested the assistance of Crimes Against Person's Detectives (CAP). The initial investigation by CAP detectives learned the offender and his girlfriend had an altercation. As a result, the offender was separated from his girlfriend, and both were escorted out of business. After the argument, the offender and his girlfriend went separate ways; however, later that morning, the offender returned to the bar threatening both victims with a weapon. The victims locked themselves in the business, and the offender forced his way in and was shot. The offender was transported to University Medical Center in critical but stable condition.
